

SHE KEPT THE DOG.
YOU KEPT THE WORDS.

He says he is fine. He is not fine, and you both know it, so do not ask him again — hand him this instead.

Eight original crossword puzzles built out of the only thing a man actually wants to talk about after a breakup: her, the dog, the group chat, and the playlist he has been told twice to delete.

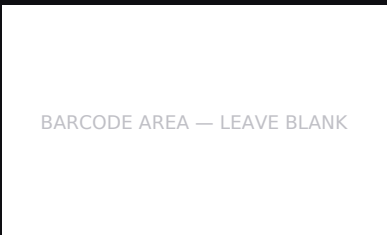

Every grid is packed with answers you will recognise:

- UNSENT the texts you composed and never sent
- WHISKEY coping, with a label and a story
- CLOSURE not available from an app
- DUMPED your status, legally and socially
- SWIPED what you did on the app while in a queue

Also inside: the Ground Rules of the Breakup, a translation of the ten messages the group chat will send you next month, a promises page you will fail, and a scorecard you should not fill in honestly.

No advice. No journaling prompts. Just proper crosswords, eight of them, with a full answer key and jokes between the puzzles.
